

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A change in the state of a package in an NE is recognized and operation setting necessary for the package is performed automatically and efficiently. A package information obtaining section obtains information regarding a package and generates a package information table at the time of starting. An operational information obtaining section obtains information regarding the package regularly and generates an operational information table at the time of operating network elements through. A change information detecting section detects change information by comparing the package information table and the operational information table. A package operation setting performing section performs operation setting on the package on the basis of the change information.